

Delaware adopting California's law.

K Lynn King <klynnking@verizon.net>

Fri 12/16/2022 10:16 AM

To: Krall, Kyle (DNREC) <Kyle.Krall@delaware.gov>

Who is there to stand up for us???? If they ban the sale of these vehicles, how are we going to get everything we get in a store? Is there anyone who will stop this insanity????? Of course they are going to do it by zoom. That way those of us who want to be heard will have no chance of voicing our opinion. For some reason they just don't seem to understand, we don't have the infrastructure to go electric. Someone has to have the courage to start saying "NO".

Electric vehicles cost too much. I certainly can't afford one. Even if they give you a 40% discount, I can't afford the 60%.

The minute you start using one the batter starts to degrade and it takes longer to charge.

The batteries explode.

Your electric rates will go up.

Batteries cost a small fortune to replace – upwards of $5,000 per battery.

They are too expensive to service.

If you are on a tractor in the middle of a harvest and your battery dies. What then????? If you have gas in your tractor, you bring out your supply, gas up and you are on your way.

If you are out in the middle of nowhere and your batteries die???? Where will you get a charge. If you have gas, you just get some, put it in your tank and you are on your way.

I guess the whoever is okay with the slave labor of children as young as 9 working in the mines to get the rare earth minerals.

I guess the whoever is okay with the mining of the rare earth minerals making brown fields and destroying our earth.

Do they realize how many people they will put out of work? I guess that is okay, The democrats are really good at putting people out of work.

With the elimination of fossil fuels, we will have no vehicles. Everything that makes up a vehicle is the byproduct of fossil fuels.

NO EV CARS ARE NOT GREEN CARS. THEY ARE DESTROYING OUR EARTH UNLIVABLE. I know of someone who got rid of his EV because of the cost to maintain it.

PLEASE, please stop this. Someone has to say "NO" enough is enough.

On another subject, heard Biden has signed legislation to reduce the speed of boats to 10 knots in the ocean in order to save the whales. This has the potential to put 9 million fisherman along the east coast out of work as well as hindering large tankers making deliveries to our ports. Saw report on FOX news last night. Someone has to do something about what is happening.

Lynn