Electric auto mandate

Jim Mook <runamook@gmail.com>

Fri 12/30/2022 10:54 PM

To: Krall, Kyle (DNREC) <Kyle.Krall@delaware.gov>

I am writing again to voice my opposition to Delaware mandating battery powered electric cars in the future. There are many reasons to not consider this just in how far away we are from making this form of power commercially feasible. Another reason is the ridiculous cost to purchase these autos, which is even more of a burden on Seniors and lower wage earners. Tax credits are also not feasible since many do not earn enough to pay any or enough tax to benefit.
I could continue but I will end with saying that those in government that approved this law will definitely have great concerns in attempting to be re-elected. The majority of voters want to make their own decisions not be forced into a high cost, low return burden.

Sent from my iPad