

Proposed Nitrogen Balance Worksheet Language

The Standard Nitrogen Balance Worksheets should be reproduced and used by plan preparers as a means of recording required design information for the various characteristics and actual data used in the Nitrogen Balance spreadsheet. The worksheets contain input variables that should be included in the Nitrogen Balance narrative. Use of the worksheets ensures that all required information is included. Failure to provide all of the information required by the appropriate worksheet(s) will constitute a plan that is administratively incomplete.

These worksheets may not be altered in form or content unless prior approval is obtained from the Groundwater Discharges Section. Altered worksheets may not be labeled “Standard Nitrogen Balance Worksheet.” While data from these worksheets may appear in the Design Engineers Report, the worksheets themselves may not be substituted for the standard details in the Nitrogen Balance spreadsheet.
